Les Angeles has been making a strong hid for the business of the Nevada proce of any stock or haid means that mining districts, and within the last few years has namined to build up an eromous trade. Piaced on anything like an equal basis with San Prancisco as regards transportation the Angel City would doubtless make a strong try for old rule of supply and demand just as the towards, a company may be formthe business of this section.

For Honolain goods southern California should offer an attractive market. Not only are Arizona and New Mexico supplied by the Los Angeles manufacturers and jobbers, but the trade with old Mexico is no small item. Southern Cali: no partnering reason for helieving that fornia alone is a fine market for high grade products and Hawaiian pineapple there is any more of a stramble for shippers could build up a large and lucrative business.

Business men of Los Angeles are anxious to large a steamship line connect ing the Angel City with Honolulu. There is muple money in southern California matters which a person should look to finance such an enterprise and the money would doubtless be forthcoming were luto before investing any money in a there some evidence offered that such a line would prove profitable. If Los stock which has never paid a dividend Angeles men are interested enough to put up their money would if not be well for Handalu to show some interest in the matter?

Hawaii wants ships. The people of this Territory are anxions to extend value the scope of their trade connections. WAIKIKI BEACH.

When a newspaper published thousands of miles away makes comment on the dilapidated condition of Washiki Beach it is about time for the full of Honolidu to sit up and do something. The following item from the Hartford Connecticut Times may not please the people of this city but no one can doubt

Few bathing beaches elsewhere in this country surpass Walkibi Beach in Honofulu; that is, Waisiki as it was until within a few years. Travelers who saw the beach when it was at its best remember it as one of the finest in the world, but the coral insect has been busy and what was, next to the climate and the scenery, the city's most valuable asset, from the tourist's angle of view, has saddy shrunk in the past ten years.

George Webb, who made his first appearance as leading man last night did not show up as well as he might have. The heavy scene in the third act was evidently too much for him, and it was a very noticeable strain on Miss Oswald to keep the scene from falling flat. Mr. Webb talks too fast for one thing, and he reads his lines in too stilled a manner. The nervousness of a first performance with a new company doubtless had something to do with his rather poor showing.

Charles Royal and Griffith Wray were both great. Royal is funny in everything he does, while Wray can play an unsympathetic sort of a part and make his audience sorry for the character.
